

Money&Markets EXTRA

For the week ending Saturday June 16, 2018

MONEY MATTERS-CASH BACK APPS

Cash back is not just for credit cards. More apps are offering ways to get money back on the stuff you buy. But shoppers have to do some work for the money.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Fed signals more rate hikes on the way; court gives green light to AT&T purchase of Time Warner; Seattle repeals tax opposed by Amazon.com

QUICK FIX

How to plan an overseas destination wedding.

WIRELESS & CASHLESS

Apple is working on several tools to help monitor how much time you spend staring at your smartphone and help break the addiction.

SMALL BUSINESS MONITOR

Small business owners who want to sell products or services to the federal government may feel daunted by the process. There are resources, online and in-person, to make it easier.

CENTERPIECE

Inflation on simmer

The economy is growing and unemployment is shrinking, but a steady rise in inflation has tempered the broader economic outlook.

MARKET PULSE

Guess founder resigns after investigation into sexual harassment claims; charitable giving in U.S. hits record; Tesla trimming workforce

OF MUTUAL INTEREST-BOND RISKS

The Federal Reserve's decision to raise its key interest rate is reminding investors that even bonds, the supposedly buttoned-down, conservative part of their portfolios, carry their own risks.

INSIDER Q&A-AUTONOMOUS SHUTTLES

Pierre Bourgin, U.S. general manager for French autonomous vehicle company Navya, talks to The Associated Press about his company's focus on low-speed shuttles to ferry passengers around hospitals, airports and elsewhere.

$1,000 DERBY

If you invested $1,000 at the start of this year in various types of stocks, bonds and commodities, how much would you have now?

For questions about Money & Markets Extra content, contact Greg Keller (800-845-8450, ext. 7958). For technical support: Todd Balog (816-654-1096). After 6 p.m., contact the AP Business News desk (800-845-8450, ext. 1680) for content questions; 1-800-3AP-STOX for technical support and 212-621-1905 for graphics help.