

Money&Markets EXTRA

For the week ending Saturday, February 17, 2018

MONEY MATTERS-SURPRISE MEDICAL BILLS

A nasty flu season and fresh insurance deductibles may combine this winter to smack patients around the country with expensive, surprise medical bills.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

The first blood test to help doctors diagnose traumatic brain injuries has won approval; President Trump unveiled a $4.4 trillion budget; Lexus is the most dependable vehicle for the seventh year in J.D. Power's annual survey.

QUICK FIX

It's the busiest weekend for taxpayers with questions on their returns. Here's where to find help if the IRS phone lines are jammed.

WIRELESS & CASHLESS

Personal finance service Credit Karma alerts you when it thinks you can save money by switching auto insurance or refinancing an auto loan.

SMALL BUSINESS MONITOR

A small business owner whose customer files for Chapter 11 likely wonders, will I get paid for what I've already sold them, and should I keep on selling?

CENTERPIECE

Cryptomania strikes Nvidia

Silicon Valley-based chipmaker Nvidia designs many of its graphics processors with video gamers in mind, but cryptomania has rapidly built a new clientele for the high-end circuits.

MARKET PULSE

Mattel is rolling out an update to its classic card game Uno called — what else — Dos; Apple is coy about how much it will raise its dividend; Chicago's 100-story John Hancock Center will be renamed.

OF MUTUAL INTEREST-Q&A STRINGFELLOW

Tom Stringfellow, chief investment officer for Frost Advisors, says investors are still buying the same stocks as they were right before the market's sharp downturn this month.

INSIDER Q&A-AMEX'S KEN CHENAULT

In his last interview before retiring, longtime American Express boss Kenneth Chenault talks to The Associated Press about the new tax law, being a black CEO, and what greater competition means for AmEx.

$1,000 DERBY

If you invested $1,000 at the start of this year in various types of stocks, bonds and commodities, how much would you have now?

For questions about Money & Markets Extra, contact Greg Keller (800-845-8450, ext. 7958).
For technical support: Todd Balog (816-654-1096). After 6 p.m., contact the AP Business News desk (800-845-8450, ext. 1680) for questions on modules; 1-800-3AP-STOX for technical support and 212-621-1905 for graphics help.