MONEY MATTERS-PRIME WARDROBE-REVIEW

Amazon hopes to turn your home into a fitting room, after shipping you a box of fashions to try on before you pay. Prime Wardrobe is similar to services like Stitch Fix, but there are differences.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

IRS systems fail on tax day; Starbucks shuts stores for racial bias training; Dick's Sporting Goods to destroy guns

QUICK FIX

When first-time homebuyers need help with financing, the "family bank" of Mom and Dad can sometimes lend a hand.

WIRELESS & CASHLESS

Google, Microsoft and Mozilla are adopting a new web standard that will make it easier for websites to check your identity using new forms of identification, from fingerprints to selfies.

SMALL BUSINESS MONITOR

Spring rains often bring heavy flooding to parts of the country. Many small business owners are left wishing they'd bought flood insurance.

CENTERPIECE

Tizzy over tariffs?

Early signs indicate consumers are starting to worry more about the future, reversing several years of growing optimism, and blame is falling on the Trump administration's trade policies.

MARKET PULSE

Domino's expands pizza delivery to beaches, parks and other outdoor locations; Microsoft turns to former rival to improve internet security; study shows spouses can boost early detection for melanoma patients.

OF MUTUAL INTEREST-DIVING INTO RISK

Stock markets are struggling around the world, but investors keep pouring money into stock funds from China, Brazil and other volatile markets that they see as some of the few corners that don't look overpriced.

INSIDER Q&A-TAX OVERHAUL

The tax overhaul that took effect Jan. 1 provides generous breaks for corporations and wealthy Americans and more modest relief for middle- and low-income households. Senior policy analyst Richard Phillips talks to The Associated Press about what that means for tax payers.

$1,000 DERBY

If you invested $1,000 at the start of this year in various types of stocks, bonds and commodities, how much would you have now?
