Health care company Johnson & Johnson announced it will acquire the maker of surgical products for 52-week range

$438 million, or $25 a share.

Today

A second reading on gross domestic product is expected to show the economy contracted more than previously estimated in the third quarter. Consumer confidence is also likely to slip from its record low, while a food maker reports results.

Economic output

The second or "preliminary" reading on the total of all the goods and services produced in the U.S. is expected to be revised downward from the first -0.3 percent estimate. It would still be the economy's poorest performance since the third quarter of 2001, which was during a recession. While the National Bureau of Economic Research hasn't yet assigned that designation to the current downturn, many experts agree

Hormel Foods earnings

The maker of Spam, canned chili and Jennie-O turkey products recently reduced its fiscal 2008 profit outlook, citing global economic weakness and higher costs. Stephens Inc. analyst Farha Aslam rates the packaged food maker "equal weight," saying it's too early to buy even though the shares are priced low.

Glum consumers

In October, consumer confidence hit the lowest level since the Conference Board began keeping records in 1967. About a year ago, the index stood at 95.2. Surging layoffs, falling home prices and investment losses are weighing on consumers, who are cutting spend ing as a result. Credit Suisse economists think the November reading could come in at 35, lower than the average analyst estimate, due to a "horrific" October jobs report that showed the unemployment rate spiking to 6.5 percent. Consumer Confidence index 70 60 50 40 30 MAMJJASON

Serious about fun

Retailer GameStop Corp. (GME) is getting high scores from analysts despite reporting lower

19.93

Company Spotlight third-quarter earnings and cutting its full-year profit target. They say "hardcore gamers" are less likely than other video game customers to put off purchases even in a tough economy. This will help GameStop as well as other game sellers from Wal-Mart to Amazon.com to mom and pop stores. Credit Suisse analyst Gary Balter maintained his "outperform" rating on GameStop after it posted results, saying its price below $20 a share already reflects concerns about slower growth. The company says it's being cautious with projections as it is unsure how the economy will affect holiday sales and purchases by casual gamers. Sales grew at a 5 percent pace in the third quarter, although that fell just short of analyst projections.

all Street barreled higher for the second straight session, as the government's plan to bail out Citigroup quieted some uncertainty over the financial sector and the overall economy. The surge was the first two-day advance since Oct. 30-31 and the Dow industrials' biggest two-day percentage gain since October 1987; the 891-point rise over the two sessions wiped out an 872-point plunge Wednesday and Thursday. The government will invest $20 billion in Citigroup and guarantee $306 billion out of the bank's risky assets. The Dow rose 396.97, or 4.93 percent, to 8,443.39. The S&P 500 gained 51.78, or 6.47 percent, to 851.81, and the Nasdaq rose 87.67, or 6.33 percent, to 1,472.02.
